DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed September 10, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Contrary to the Applicant's argument, the relative position of the syringe units in the slots of the tray constitutes a "code". Furthermore, because the substances are for use in a particular order, the order of use constitutes a "code" for the substances that corresponds to the code of the slots of the tray. If a doctor asks for the "first syringe", the person retrieving the syringe from the "Walker" tray would understand the code of which syringe is the first, and that the first substance to be administered would correspond with the "first syringe".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-11, 28, and 39-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Walker et al. (5,651,775) as cited in Applicant's IDS. Walker et al. discloses a method of monitoring administration of a substance (col. 8, line 66- col. 10, line 65) comprising: establishing first and second predetermined coded substance sites for a corresponding carrier, placing the carrier (231) in the first site (70), administering the substance by sliding the carrier forward into slot (70''), and placing the carrier in the second site (70). Please note that the first and second sites can be the same site, as recited by the Applicant in claim 39. Furthermore, the sites or slots are determined by the order of administration in a sequential pattern (col. 9, lines 30-35). Verification and monitoring of use of the substance is done by a bar code system and optical reader (180) and visually noted by the clinician on an LCD (160). Records are stored using a microcontroller (302).

Art Unit: 3738

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
